10. Learn the first-aid ABC: airways, breathing, circulation.

What Your Doctor Didn't Tell You

1. Don't be poor. If you can, stop. If you can't, try not to be poor for long.
2. Live near good supermarkets and affordable fresh produce stores
3. Live in a safe leafy neighborhood with parks and green space nearby.
4. Work in a rewarding and respected job with good compensation, benefits, and control over your work.
5. If you work, don't lose your job or get laid off.
6. Take family vacations and all the benefits you are entitled to.
7. Make sure you have wealthy parents.
8. Don't live in damp, low-quality housing, next to a busy road or near a polluting factory.
9. Be sure to own a car, so you don't have to rely on under-funded public transportation.
10. Learn how to fill in the complex housing benefit application forms before you become homeless and destitute.

There is more to good health than lifestyle choices, genes and access to health care. Research shows that the social circumstances in which we are born, live and work—our jobs, schools, built space, transportation, even the quality of civic life—get under the skin, influencing our behaviors, access to resources, chronic stress levels, and ultimately increasing or decreasing our chances for health.
